Kelly and Adam

About Us

We met over seven years ago by chance meeting with common friends. From there we went on to enjoy many different activities together such as: singing along/dancing to great songs, traveling to different states, checking out different sports events, exploring different museums and cultural/ community festivals, going on walks, and visiting our family and friends. We love to learn new things from each other and from others that we come across. Each day is a new day and we love finding the blessings in our surroundings together.

We both have careers which make us smile each day. Kelly is a lead teacher for a 4/5 yr. old preschool room, as well as an administrator for the preschool program in her Catholic preschool through 8th grade school. She loves learning each day something new from her students who always make her smile. Adam is very happy to work with one of his best friends as a boss, in a small company repairing tire rims. Each weeknight at dinner we discuss how work and our day went as we make sure to eat together at our dinner table.

ABOUT Adam
(written by Kelly)

I believe that Adam will be such a great dad. He has wonderful characteristics he demonstrates with our peers/family members, their children, and myself. Not only do I see the smile he gets around children, I see the smiles they have as a result of his influence. Adam is such a kind, caring, funny, and hard working individual. He brings a smile to my face everyday, and enjoys making me laugh. If Adam ever sees that someone is upset, he will try to make them laugh or check in to listen showing he cares and making sure people know he is always there. Adam lights up a room with his caring attitude and his passion, (such as when sports games are on he is leading the family and friends as well as their children in team cheers). He works his hardest at everything he does, and takes pride in all of his work. I know that he will be such a happy, proud, caring, funny, and respecting father!

ABOUT Kelly
(written byAdam)

Kelly is a very kind and friendly person who gets along with anyone that she meets. In addition as a teacher Kelly cares very deeply about the kids that she teaches at her school. Not only is Kelly my wife but also my best friend. Even though we've been together for 7 years it feels like I've known her all my life – lol. I know with all her great traits she would make a great mother when the time comes.

Our Family and Friends

Kelly with her cousins

Within a twenty minute drive of us Adam has 4 brothers, and Kelly has one sister and one brother. This includes Kelly's parents and Adams's father all of whom we talk to or visit weekly. We are so lucky to have amazing friends as well, many of who grew up with our families as extended family members. We often make a schedule to meet up with friends and their children around the holidays and over the summer for cookouts as well. This group includes many different nieces and nephews, as well as their friends who have become part of our family as well.

Our Home

We live in a bi-level house on a quiet and family friendly street. We have three bedrooms, a large office that could be used as a bedroom, three living rooms, the dinning room, kitchen, laundry room, and 2 bathrooms. We also have a large backyard deck as well as a privacy fence in our backyard. Our house is in a suburb with a 15-minute drive to a major urban city. We live right down the street from two large baseball fields, and a park. We also live across the street from the library, the community recreation center, a safety town, and city hall, the police, and fire department. We are within walking distance of the local elementary, and intermediate schools, as well as a short 5 to 10-minute drive to our public high school. We are also a short drive to many restaurants, grocery stores, movie theaters, and parks.

Dear Birth Parent,

We are so glad that our paths meet to bring you to our profile. We met a little over 7 years as a result of our paths crossing though having common peers. We are kind, outgoing, funny, caring, and hard working individuals, who love to laugh, explore, and to make others happy. We are choosing to adopt as we both have had wonderful experiences with other children who we very much care about. We believe we are ready to have a child of our own, who we can share great experiences with as well. Kelly is a teacher and administrator who loves to not only teach preschoolers, but learn from them every day as well. Adam works on car rims and enjoys talking to different people he comes across each day. We are looking forward to finding out that we are adopting to show our future child love, respect, kindness, and many giggles. We wish you the best, and would like to take the time to say thank you for viewing our profile.

Sincerely,

Adam and Kelly

Why adoption?

In our lives we have been very lucky to have great experiences with children. With being a teacher Kelly is able to have so many great children, each who have their own unique characteristics. She speaks about how she can open her heart for each of those children, and even though they go home at the end of the day they will all have a special place in her heart and be loved as her own child. Adam lived with his brother after he came home from the military and helped to raise his brother and sister in laws children. Those kids became such an important part of who he is. We have had many friends who have children who we love so much and cherish our time with them.

After trying for a few years to have children, a friend of ours (who we believe was meant to be in our path) told Kelly about what it meant to her to meet up with her biological child she placed for adoption and her adoptive parents. She spoke about how appreciative she was of the adoptive parents and vice versa, and the love that was shown between everybody. This story helped us to see even more what a great opportunity adopting would be and how we would love to be a part of this process.
