About Me

I love to have fun no matter whom it's with or where it is. Most would describe me as easy going, big-hearted, and hardworking. Now if you ask my brothers, they would throw very "sarcastic" in there. Most nights, we have dinner together as a family, with grandmas cooking! I love to spend time outdoors, whether its coaching my nephews soccer team, swimming in my brothers pool, hiking in the many nearby parks, working on a puzzle or taking a walk with the dogs.

I graduated from college with two degrees in Business Marketing and English. I am currently working as an Operations Lead, managing a team for online purchases. I really enjoy what I do, knowing that my team is helping out customers find more time to spend with their families as we do their shopping for them! I have previously worked as an Escrow Officer for 6 years in California, as well as 14 years as an Account Executive, managing accounts for well-known brand names.

About Kelly

Written by her Mom & Dad

We have known since Kelly was very small that she would have all the qualities to be a wonderful mother. She's patient, compassionate, and helpful with a kind soul. She always has been driven to be successful and independent. Kelly was an honor student throughout high school and college, landing a job right out of college. As we watched her grow throughout her career, being promoted multiple times, we saw what a successful person she has really become, both personally and financially.

Kelly has had the love for children, since we can remember. She started her own babysitting career at the age of 10, watching kids in the neighborhood, as well as for friends and family. Watching her around all her nieces and nephews just shows how much love she has to offer. As much as Kelly is excited to adopt, we also can't wait to meet our new grandchild. We absolutely just love spending time with all of them and looking forward to spoiling another.

My Home

I just recently bought a two-story house that was suitable to move my parents in with me. We each have our own living quarters, with a Master Suite on the main level. Then upstairs are two more bedrooms, bathroom, living room, and huge play area. Outside are two separate decks and a fully fenced in backyard. In walking distance there is the library and a state park full of mini parks and hiking trails. We just love it, because we are on a private cul-de-sac with plenty of neighborhood fun, along with a state ranked school district.

My Little Man

Rocko is turning 16 years old this year! I just can't believe. I adopted Rocko when he was just 7 weeks old, weighing in just shy of a pound. He is such a loving and affectionate dog, cuddling up on anyone's lap that he can find. He loves to dress up; wearing funny t-shirts, sports apparel and holiday wear almost everyday. He recently welcomed his cousin Bella into our new home and just loves having a pal to play with. Bella is a five-year old King Charles spaniel that loves to take walks and tricking Grandma and Grandpa into extra treats.

My family may look small from the outside, with just two brothers, but if you add in all the aunts, uncles, nieces, and nephews, seems to add up to a small army. I am the middle child, and have always been very close to both my brothers. They both live just about two miles away and we are constantly doing things together weekly. Activities include but not limited to movie nights, BBQs, Pool parties, and school sports/activities. And with my parents now living with me, I couldn't ask for anything for more.

Holidays are one our favorite times. If it shows up as a holiday on the calendar, it gives us another reason to get together and throw a party. Christmas, Easter, St. Patrick's Day, Labor Day, you name it we love to celebrate and just have fun, relax, and be together. This also allows us to open up our doors for all our extended family of friends and co-workers.

Currently there are six nieces and nephews, ranging from 18 months to 14 years of age, including a set of 18-month old twins, who can't wait to have someone else to play with. The entire family is very supportive of my adoption decision, and is very eager to welcome a new child into our family.

Dear Birthparent,

I thank you for taking the time to learn about my family and me. I hope that this small glimpse into my life, has given you the confidence that your child, will be welcomed and loved. I can't wait to open my doors and heart, no matter the race or ethnicity. Be assured that your child will always know that your decision was heartfelt and love driven. I have made it a goal of mine to be financially stable as a single parent, working many hard days and nights, to lead up to this very exciting decision.

Why adoption

For as long as I can remember, I have wanted to be a mom. About two years ago I lost a child after carrying her for five months. I went into to labor early and delivered her weighing in at just a pound. After further research I was told I could no longer carry children due to a rare blood clotting disease that is harmful to both the baby and me. After recently losing a child, and finding out that I cannot carry children, I was drawn to adoption. And the more I talk to friends and family, the more I realize that so many of them were adopted! As a single mom, and all the hard work I put into making sure any child will have the perfect family, both supportive and financially, I couldn't be any more excited.
