about jennifer written by Matthew

Jennifer is a very compassionate person, and she wears her heart on her sleeve. She is very goal-oriented, and does what she can to help other people. She can easily make connections with people, and her friends would say that she is an easy person to love. She goes above and beyond with her nephews, and showers them with the love and compassion that she would shower her own children with.

about matt written by Jennifer

Matthew is a positive individual, who is easy to talk whether you are a stranger, acquaintance, friend, or family. He is always there for anyone who needs help, to talk or support in anyway. He has strong lasting relationships with those close to him. Matt has a calm and easy-going personality. His good sense of humor keeps me on my toes and laughing. His love towards his niece and nephews is endless. I know through his affection and warm heart he will make him a wonderful father, protector, and role model.

our home

We moved into our home in 2018. It is in a quiet urban suburb neighborhood. Our home is a four-bedroom, two-and-a-half-bathroom house located on the corner of the block. Jennifer loves to decorate, and has remodeled and decorated our home to feel very warm and welcoming. Matt enjoys working in yard and on the landscape. Our neighborhood is very friendly, with neighbors waving and saying hi whenever they see you. There is a park very close by (within a short walking distance). Our home is close to major shopping centers, grocery stores, churches, fire stations, and hospitals. The school district has high ratings and is one of the best in the state. We have a fenced in yard for our two dogs to run around, as well as for our future child to play, and a nice patio that Matt likes to grill out on, no matter the weather.

our dogs

We have 2 dogs, Layla and Xena, both miniature dachshunds. They are very much members of our family. Both girls are sweet and loving whom like to lay on your lap and cuddle. Layla and Xena are great with our niece and nephews. The girls love to play and take walks, and we cannot wait for our future child to become their friend and playmate.

our family

Matt's mothers family

We both come from a very loving, caring and supportive families. Our families have been extremely supportive of our decision to expand our family with adoption. Jennifer comes from a big extended family and has close relationships with many of them. Matt has a sister, who is married and has three children, son, daughter, and a step-daughter. Jennifer has a sister, who has a young boy, and a brother, who is married with a baby boy. Religion was very much a part of both of our upbringing, and continues to be. We have close relationships with our families, and we are always getting together with them for different holidays, reunions, special occasions, and just to get together making new memories.

why adoption

We have always wanted to become parents, however natural conception has been difficult and may not be God's plan for us. After multiple miscarriages and unsuccessful infertility treatments, we decided to focus our energy on adoption. We discussed the option of adoption early on in our struggles with natural conception. With the support of our family and friends, as well as our strong faith in God, we know that this is the right decision for us. We are looking forward to becoming parents, and to be able to adopt a child and grow our family.
