Jessica

About Me

Hi there! My name is Jessica and thank you for "meeting me." My friends and family would describe me as loving, compassionate, loyal, determined, and someone that is always willing to lend a hand. I would say that I have a pretty good sense of humor, and always look to find the bright sides of life. I imagine that if my fur-baby Ella could talk, she would describe me as someone that gives good belly rubs, finds the best cookies, and is the best adventure partner and cuddler.

I am a Human Resources Executive for an agency that provides early childhood, educational and mental health services to children and families across the state. Because of this, I am lucky to have multiple child development and engagement experts at my fingertips! When they say it takes a village to raise a child, I can confidently say I have that village that includes my work family, but also my personal family and friends.

Words cannot express the anticipation and excitement I have at the opportunity to become a parent. I hope that as you continue throughout your journey, you connect with what you see in my profile, and we can take the next steps of our journeys together.

(written by my parents)

We are writing to tell you a little about our daughter, Jessica. We are beyond proud of her and have a very close relationship. From the time she was a little girl, Jessica has always demonstrated a maternal instinct. She loved to play house and care for her dolls in a caring and loving way. Jessica learned to read at an early age and enjoyed teaching her younger brother, while also demonstrating a very protective instinct over him as he grew up.

Jessica's actions have always demonstrated that she is compassionate, thoughtful, and caring for her family and others. She helped comfort her ailing grandfather with empathy and patience in his last days. And even though Jessica's best friend, her fur-baby Ella, has had chronic medical issues over the years, her love and devotion is unwavering.

Jessica handles life's challenges with integrity, sincerity and with loving care. In her professional life, she has dealt with many intense difficult situations, including children and families struggling with economic, physical, and social hardships. Jessica has shown us that she is an empathetic and caring person ready to begin the journey of parenthood.

Jessica is so excited for the opportunity to share her experiences and love with your child. We know our daughter, and we can honestly say that Jessica will be the most loving, caring, and nurturing parent, and that she would provide a wonderful home and future for your child. She will support your child throughout every aspect of their life.

My Home

I live in a two-bedroom, two-bathroom condo in a complex with quick and easy access to parks, recreation activities, restaurants, and more! My neighborhood is quiet and safe, and my community is always willing to help each other out, while also enjoying cookouts and celebrations together. During the summer months, there are beautiful fireworks that are far enough away to not be too noisy but are close enough that I can see from my backyard. It is really a neat experience.

My home is my sanctuary. It is a place where I can rest, recharge, and take joy in the comfort and safety it brings me. I love to decorate, so during the holiday seasons you will always find décor throughout whether it be pumpkins, Christmas trees, or spring flowers. I look forward to being able to share those traditions with a little one, watching their creativity grow as they put all their decorations on the Christmas tree.

My Family

I am blessed to have amazing family and friends, that I will never take for granted. My parents live close by, and we often get together for dinner, walks, or to watch sporting events together. They are both over the moon at the thought of becoming grandparents. My brother and sister-in-law, Justin and Tara, no longer live locally, but we talk often and when they come in town, it is as if no time has passed. We are right back to laughing, joking, and taking walks down memory lane from our childhoods.

My friends, that I lovingly refer to as my tribe, are a diverse group of people that I can count on at any time, and trust with my life. We love spending time together either attending concerts or baseball games, watching movies, or simply talking through the ups and downs of life. I would be lost without them, and feel so grateful to know that they are so supportive of the adoption process and are looking forward to their unofficial Aunt and Uncle status.

Dear Birth Parent(s),

I cannot begin to express the gratitude that I feel towards you and your decision to review my profile. Your consideration of me to become the adoptive parent to your child, is not something that I take lightly. Please know that I want to make sure you are as comfortable and supported throughout this process as possible, and I will do everything in my power to ensure that happens. I promise that I will provide a happy, healthy, and fun-loving home for your child, one filled with love, laughter, family, and friends.

For as long as I can remember, becoming a mother has been something that spoke very deeply to me. I love children, and the thought of having the opportunity to bring a child into my family simply makes my heart smile. I have been blessed with my fur-baby, Ella, for nine years now. She is the absolute sweetest and will also take very good care of her little brother or sister. She can be a total goofball and can always be counted on for a smile or giggle.

I want you to know that you are brave, loving, and strong. I want you to know that you can trust me to keep your child safe, healthy, and happy. I want you to know that you are not alone. We are in this together.

Warmly,

Jessica

Why Adoption?

I have chosen adoption because quite simply, I want nothing more than to be a mom. Infertility issues do not allow for me to take that step biologically, and I feel adoption will add a level of joy to my life that I am ready to embrace with open arms. So again, I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Ella also wants to thank you for the opportunity to become a loving and protective 4-legged big sister! I am open to any gender, race, ethnicity, and cultural background and this would all be incorporated into their upbringing.
