Alec & Jordan

About Us

Hi, we are Alec and Jordan!

Alec is an Operations Supervisor as well as a Sergeant in the Army National Guard and Jordan is a Physical Therapist Assistant. We met on an online dating app three months before Alec deployed to Afghanistan. In those short three months of dating, we knew that we definitely wanted to see what a future together would hold. We've now been together for seven years and happily married for five. Family, friends, and our dogs are the most important things to us. We have two playful dachshunds, Bernie and Chester, and an energetic Great Dane named Hank. We consider ourselves to be an outgoing and adventurous couple. Our careers help us recognize how life is a gift. We take nothing for granted and can make any situation a fun one. We host an annual 4th of July party, with a fabulous firework show, as well as a Halloween Costume party. We also love traveling and make it a priority to experience a new place every year. Though, nothing gives us more joy than being surrounded by the people (and animals) we love.

About Alec by Jordan

It is so difficult to summarize what an amazing person Alec is. He is the true definition of “never judge a book by its cover.” Once you get to know Alec, you will find that he is a genuine, honest, loyal, loving, and funny person. He is incredibly smart and continues to amaze me with his knowledge and determination. When this man sets his mind to something, nothing will stop him until it’s completed. He is not a quitter, if one door closes, he waits until another one opens or creates a new door himself. I promise you this man was meant to be a father. He will wake up for the midnight feedings and build the blanket forts. He will be front and center at every event, he will be your baby’s biggest supporter.

About Jordan by Alec

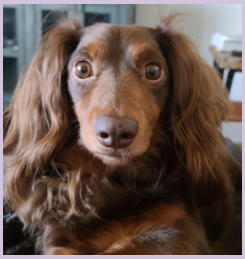
From the first time I met Jordan, I felt like I have known her for years. We immediately hit it off like old friends. From that moment on I knew she was the one whom my soul loves. We have gone through highs and lows and Jordan has always remained strong. She motivates me to be a better person every day. Jordan has never met a stranger. When she was little her mom always had trouble wrangling her to stop her from giving hugs to strangers. I cannot imagine another human being that deserves to be a mother more than her. Every day is a blessing to know her, and I cannot wait to see the day that we have a child that we can share our life with.

Our Home



Our home is a ranch style home with a fully finished basement, situated on 3 ½ acres. We bought our home in 2020 with the intentions of living the “country life.” We have always envisioned having chickens, ducks, and goats. We still are working on getting the goats, but we currently have eight chickens and four ducks. Our ducks and chickens were all hand raised, and we see them all as pets. We also have dreams of having a small pumpkin patch with mini hayrides and all. We have a pond, that we fish, enjoy watching the duck swim on, and have occasionally swum in, to cool down in the summer. Our backyard is fenced in, with a large back deck that we spend many evenings on. We love having bonfires, riding our four-wheelers, and watching the sunsets over the pond. We hope to someday share all of this with a child.

We could go on for hours and hours about how amazing our family and friends are. As I'm sure you'd prefer to not read a novel, let's give you the short and sweet. Our support is unwavering. They have been beside us in every decision, challenge, and success we've had. When we made the decision to move forward with adoption, our family's response was "finally!"

Our Family

Jordan's side of the family is loud, outdoorsy, and outgoing, making the expression; "the apple doesn't fall far from the tree" true. We always look forward to visiting with them on the weekends. Shopping, traveling, camping, heckling each other, game nights and lots of laughter are common when you are around Jordan's family. Jordan has one brother with whom she is super close.

Alec's side of the family is practical, a little more traditional and dependable. Alec's dad is always a call away when needed. He has helped us many times when something has needed fixed. Alec's family enjoys quilting, canning, and cooking for events at the local VFW and American Legion. His dad also has one of the largest movie collections you've ever seen and looks forward to watching all the classic and new Disney movies with his grandchildren. Alec has two brothers who both have children, and we look forward to watching all the cousins grow up together.

Annual pajama Christmas party with Jordan's 2 childhood friends & their families.

We are surrounded by great friends of all different ethnic backgrounds and races. We have a core group of friends that we consider family -ones that we see for every holiday, including an annual pajama Christmas party. Their kids are considered our nieces and nephews and call us "Auntie Jordan" and "Uncle Alec." We know that when our time to become parents happens, we will have the most amazing and accepting group of people around us to help us raise a baby.

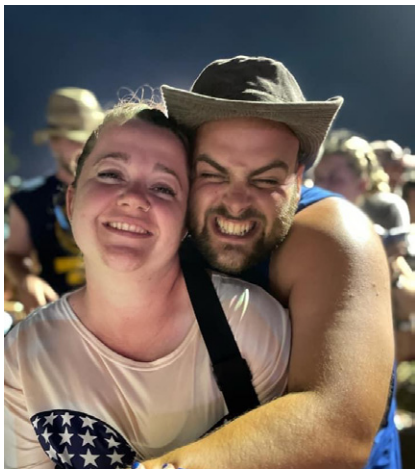
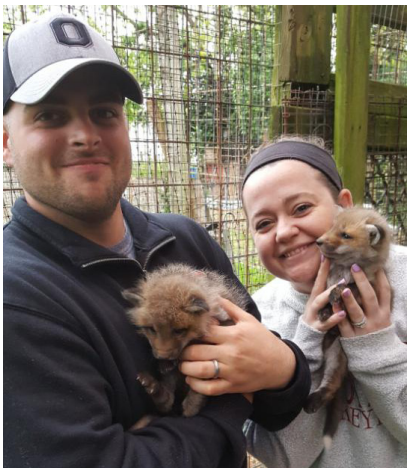
Dear birthparents,

Firstly, we want to thank you for taking the time to consider our family. We can only imagine the emotions you are experiencing with this process. The courage, strength, and selflessness it takes to place a child for adoption is unfathomable. Whether you choose our family or not, we hope you find the perfect match for you and your baby. We promise that if you do choose us, we will love your baby with everything we have. We will dedicate our lives ensuring this child lives a healthy happy life, and understands the opportunities started with you and your decision. We will make sure that we support, educate, and encourage your child to appreciate and embrace their heritage/ethnicity/race. Thank you again for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Alec & Jordan





Why Adoption

We know in our hearts that we are meant to be parents. We are firm believers in “everything happens for a reason.” So after several years of infertility, we realized our journey to parenthood was meant to happen differently. Adoption holds a special place in our hearts as Jordan is adopted by her father. He taught Jordan that love can be completely unconditional; no ifs, ands or buts. Complete and unconditional love is what we want to provide a child. We feel so grateful for the opportunity to make our dream of parenthood a reality through adoption.
